Third Party Components

The solution includes components subject to the terms and conditions of "open source" software licenses. To the extent applicable, we herewith identify open source software included in the software. Some of these licenses require us to provide the open source software to our customers on the terms of the open source license instead of the terms of the license agreement with the solution. In this case, the terms of the open source license will apply, and our customers will have the rights granted in such licenses to the open source software itself, such as access to source code, right to make modifications, and right to reverse engineering. Therefore, unless otherwise indicated in the license agreement, our solution is powered by and provided to our customers under the terms and conditions set out by the following copyright holders:

To the extent our customers are separately authorised to combine and distribute products or applications with any other code, they must make sure that their use does not: (i) impose, or give the appearance of imposing, any condition or obligation on us with respect to Jabatix (including, without limitation, any obligation to distribute the application under an open source license); or (ii) grant, or appear to grant, to any third party any rights to or immunities under our intellectual property or proprietary rights in the solution. For the avoidance of doubt, our customers may not combine or otherwise modify the solution unless we expressly give them the right to do so under the license agreement. Notwithstanding, our customers might however always be free to combine and distribute their products or applications with open source code as herein identified below.
